THE KINGDOM OF HEARTS HAS LOST THE BATTLE: Romeo and Juliet, in heaven or in hell?

After the tearing death of Tybalt and Mercutio, another tragedy broke forth. That's right, the famous couple Romeo and Juliet and her fiancé Paris have given their last breath. The day of the wedding of Juliet and Paris, the fearless Romeo stabbed Paris in the chest and then killed himself. When Juliet discovered it, she took her life in turn. What led to this heartbreaking situation?

Once upon a time there were two teenagers who were both coming from rich families. Their future was all mapped out and they were alright with it. They were called Romeo and Juliet. No matter how ~~much~~ powerful their families were, their respective lives weren't what we can call luminous. According to some rumors, Romeo's mother died from tetanus when he was only two years old. And Juliet had nothing to be proud of, as just before this whole story began, she learnt that her mother wanted to abort her but failed. To add to her misfortune, Juliet's dog, Rhune, passed away so Juliet was in need of affection. And do we even have to mention the fact that Juliet's family; the Capulets, and the Romeo's family, the Montagues, are the sworn enemies. Now let's go back at the beginning!

Everything started on the 16th of March 1996 at a ball of the Capulets one evening. That is the place where Romeo and Juliet first met and immediately fell in love with each other. Then when the night came - young Juliet, who thought she was alone, was at her balcony and said aloud everything that she had on her heart. But this whole time the sneaky Romeo was hiding behind a bush and heard Juliet's declaration of love! He then joined her and expressed his love for her, but what they both didn't know was that a witness, hiding like Romeo was, saw the whole scene and reported it to our journal. "They were so adorable so I wanted everyone to see that those two teenagers are meant to be together no matter how much their family hate each other" has told us the witness.

Two days later, the cousin of Julie Tybalt, who was extremely jealous of this situation, asked Romeo to meet for a confrontation, but Romeo was somewhere else. Nevertheless, Tybalt still saw Mercutio, the best friend of Romeo. They started fighting and finally Tybalt killed Mercutio. And a little while after, Romeo heard the iconic last words of Mercutio "A plague o' both your houses", the valorous ~~Juliet~~ entered the ring and to revenge his best friend, killed Tybalt. After this frightful episode Romeo was nowhere to be found which worried Juliet to death. But ~~at~~ that time nobody knew that Romeo and Juliet secretly got married behind closed doors.

The parents of Juliet than decided to make her forget about Romeo by advancing the wedding they planned for her with the Count Paris of three days then you know what happened and we will discuss one person that we didn't even mention and that changed the whole story, that's right! We know whose fault is this disaster! Can you guess it? We are not going to make the suspense last... ~~the~~ Juliet's nurse!

We got an exclusive anonymous person who told us the whole truth. This is what he said:

"Juliet's nanny, Carla, was always the jealous one. She was born in a rich family but when she was very young, she got a baby out ~~of~~ marriage with an older man.

Her family then decided to banish her so Carla was forced to search for a job and that's how she became Juliet's nanny. The new nanny never really appreciated Juliet, but she needed money so she just went on with it. But when Juliet ^{begin} began her story with Romeo, all of her emotions returned to her and she ^{didn't} didn't do everything so that the same thing ^{wouldn't} wouldn't happen to Juliet. Carla was paid to give information and she betrayed Juliet so that she would stop seeing Romeo."

Well what can we think about this? Is the nurse as evil as we think she is? We're all waiting for her answer so we will see!
